

PUUR: Discover the Art of Handcrafted Pots

Handmade craftsmanship that combines strength, style, and durability

Our pots are no ordinary plant pots; they are artworks. Each one is built by hand, layer by layer, with a unique combination of polyester fleece and sprayed concrete. This provides exceptional strength, making our pots perfect for supporting large trees and plants, such as olive trees and citrus trees. Due to the artisanal manufacturing process, each pot is unique, with subtle blemishes that add character and an authentic look-something mass production can never achieve.

Practical Water-Saving Drainage System

Innovation meets tradition for optimal plant care

Thanks to the sweltering summers of recent years, PUUR pots have become an essential part of any garden. Each model features a bottom layer of hydro pebbles that functions as a water reservoir, allowing plants in our pots to survive the summer with freshness. This system allows plants to develop two types of roots: regular roots and water roots, which improves plant health and resilience. Moreover, the water reservoir is packed with air bubbles, which means optimal oxygenation of the roots. This unique design helps plants use their watering efficiently and collect rainwater for themselves. Responsible water use is more important than ever, and our pots help you use this precious resource responsibly.

Unrivaled Durability

Resilient and fully hardy for any environment

"You can hit them with your car, they don't budge," our customers say.

Unlike traditional terracotta pots, our pots can withstand harsh weather conditions, making them a durable choice for any season.

Budget-friendly

Durability and quality within reach

Our pots have an economic advantage thanks to the use of plastic fiber reinforced cement, which means they do not need to be baked like traditional terracotta pots. This process makes our pots not only stronger but also significantly more cost-effective, keeping even the largest sizes affordable for any budget.

Aesthetic Consistency with Bespoke Color Collections

Sophisticated designs, perfectly tailored to your vision

For interior designers, architects, and plant centers, we offer more than just a beautiful pot. We understand the value of aesthetic consistency in your projects. That is why we sell our pots in carefully composed sets (collections) that together form a harmonious whole. Moreover, we offer the possibility of matching the color of the pots to your customer's specific requirements. Whether it is a façade color or a patio floor, we ensure that the pots integrate perfectly into the design.

Why Choose PUUR Handcrafted Plant Pots?

Enrich your garden project with handmade, long-lasting beauty

- Handmade & unique: Each pot is crafted by hand and has unique characteristics, giving you an authentic and distinctive product.
- Practical drainage system: Our system ensures optimal plant care and helps keep plants healthy, even in large pots.
- Unrivaled durability: Our pots can withstand the harshest conditions, giving them a long lifespan.
- Budget-friendly: High-quality solutions that allow for large architectural projects while staying within budget.
- Customisation & collections: Match the color to your space and enjoy the aesthetic consistency of our carefully curated pot collections.

Complete your next project with the artisanal beauty and functional strength of our plant pots. Contact us info@puurpot.com for more information on our products, prices, and customisation options.